

SILEBY PHOTOGRAPHIC SOCIETY

Sileby Photographic Society held its annual 'Graham Johnson 12-Shot Challenge' competition at its Zoom meeting on Monday, 11th October. Usually, this takes the form of entrants each displaying a board containing twelve prints which would closely represent the pre-determined subjects, e.g. transport, bench, diagonal, roadworks, isolation, etc., etc. However, whilst the principle of the competition remained the same, in view of Zoom restrictions, the format again this year meant that digital images replaced the prints.

This year, it was the turn of visiting judge, Dave Hollingsworth, CPAGB, to award his marks for each, taking into consideration the photographer's interpretation and perception of the subjects, as well as the images being photographically good.

After analysing each image in detail and comparing like with like, Dave eventually declared Richard Storie as the winner, closely followed by John Hoogerwerf in second place. Third place was awarded to Mike Ap Thomas. Points-wise, this had been a close competition with all images evidencing a fair representation and good photography of the pre-determined subjects.

John Hoogerwerf, President, thanked Dave for his efforts in providing an objective view of the images put before him which, in itself, was quite a challenge when taking into account 84 images to scrutinise.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, 1st November, when one of Sileby's own and long-standing members, Mandy Sherrington, will present digital images under the title 'Serendib 2019'.

Anyone wishing to become a member of Sileby Photographic Society, enabling access to the weekly Monday evening meetings, should visit the contact page on the SPS website, <https://silebyps.org.uk/> when further details will be issued. The programme for the current photographic year is also available to view.
